

Little Steps Out and About

SING OUR NEW SONG WITH MY HEART

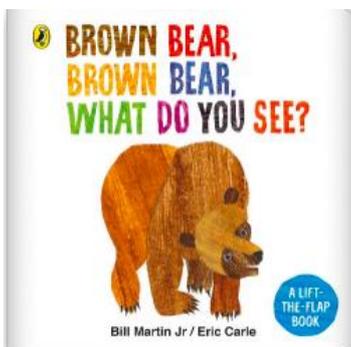

LITTLE TEDDY AND THE SNOWDROPS

Rabbit rushed in from the garden with some big news. "Big Teddy, I've been in the woods and they are covered in snowdrops!" she exclaimed. "It's wonderful." Little Teddy heard this news and stopped playing cars. He went off to put on his hat and scarf, then found his bucket, and took Big Teddy's new spade with him. "I'll go and build a great big snowman for everyone," said Little Teddy to himself. "It will be a super surprise, and they will all say, 'well done, Little Teddy'."

It was a long way to the woods; Little Teddy wished that the other toys were there too. He didn't see kind Robbie Robin flying along to keep an eye on him. There was lots of white stuff on the ground, but it wasn't really cold. Little Teddy began to have doubts.

Back in the garden, Puppy asked, "That's odd, where is Little Teddy? It's snack time, and he never misses it." Big Teddy was worried. "I thought he was in the garden. Did anyone see him go off?" No-one had. Robbie Robin arrived and announced, "Come quickly! Little Teddy is crying in the wood."

"I th-thought it would be s-s-snowy," hiccupped Little Teddy sadly. "And I was g-g-going to build a snowman." "These are snowdrops," explained Lamb kindly. They come up in the Spring and they make us happy." Big Teddy carried Little Teddy home again. "You make me very happy," he said, "but please don't go off on your own again. Time for snacks and Sleeping Bunnies."

Brown bear, Brown Bear, what do you see? by Bill Martin Jr and Eric Carle. I have recommended this story (there's a series) before, but the 50TH ANNIVERSARY BOOK is in a variety of interesting new formats.

Here's a VIDEO version with song.

TODDLER CRAFT BROWN BEAR PAINTING

We did use the Brown Bear story for the first of our trails, using colours to lead from one picture to the next. Or ... you could simply paint with forks!

Tallis is sung here by the ORA Singers in the Tate Modern.

We rejoice with Eliza Hillard after her scan results show that the tumour remains stable. We also continue to pray for her healing, and for peace for the whole family.

Our LITTLE STEPS GROUP will be able to meet again on Great Shelford Rec soon, particularly given our support group status. It seems that meeting outside may be linked to some negative social consequences (like litter) but not to spreading the virus. Guardian

The RSPB results are in from the Big Garden Birdwatch in January. There are some helpful suggestions to support our garden birds here.
